Why do we ask coaches to share their resumes with us?

1. Qualification Assessment: Resumes provide a comprehensive overview of a coach's qualifications, experience, and relevant certifications. This allows our organization to assess whether the coach meets the minimum requirements and possesses the necessary skills to work effectively with our skaters.

2. Safety and Quality Assurance: Ensuring that coaches have the appropriate qualifications and experience is critical for the safety of our skaters. It also helps maintain a high standard of coaching quality within our organization.

3. Matching Coaches to Skaters: Reviewing resumes helps match coaches with skaters based on their specific needs, skill levels, and coaching styles. This ensures a more personalized and effective coaching experience for each skater.

4. Credential Verification: Resumes often include references and details about past coaching positions. This information can be used to verify a coach's credentials and obtain feedback from previous employers or colleagues.

5. Professionalism: Requesting resumes demonstrates that our organization values professionalism and accountability. It sets clear expectations for our coaches and establishes a professional standard for our coaching staff.

6. Documentation and Record-Keeping: Resumes serve as essential documentation for our organization's records. They can be used for reference, performance evaluations, and tracking coaching staff development over time.

7. Legal and Liability Considerations: At MPPSC, having coaches submit proof of good standing along with other resumes is necessary for legal and liability reasons, especially as a member of Skate Canada.

In summary, asking coaches to share their resumes is a standard practice that helps our organization assess qualifications, ensure safety and quality, match coaches effectively, maintain professionalism, and meet various legal and accountability requirements. It ultimately contributes to the overall success and reputation of our skating program.
